

PERSPECTIVITY

Building a healthy, humane and sustainable society

Imagine that we could tap into the wisdom of various perspectives. That we could openly exchange ideas to let new insights emerge. That we could turn interdependency into fertile collaboration, to work out constructive solutions for our common good.

Our world has profoundly changed. Our daily diet is flown in from exotic places, creating employment and pollution along the way. Mobile technology connects people and markets around the globe and depletes scarce natural resources. New medication prolongs our lives and raises new ethical dilemmas.

Complexity is increasing everywhere

These examples don't stand alone, they are part of a pattern. Exponential growth of knowledge, information and technology has dramatically increased our interdependency.

As a result complexity is growing everywhere. The orderly world we once knew no longer exists. And our traditional methods of analysing, planning and executing no longer work.

What to do with a blue print approach in an emerging situation? What is the point of winning a debate if it does not bring a real solution closer? What happens to the perfect idea, if no one takes ownership to make it happen?

Unlocking Potential

We know more than we ever did and have extraordinary human potential at our disposal.

We need new ways to unlock this potential; in our organisations, in our communities, in our daily lives.

MULTI-STAKEHOLDER DIALOGUE

Perspectivity offers new ways of interacting to address today's complex social problems.

- We believe in self-reflective learning to increase knowledge of ourselves and harness individual potential.
- We facilitate multistakeholder dialogues, to truly understand each other's motivations.
- We unlock collective wisdom, passion and creativity to drive action built on common ground.

Perspectivity is a social enterprise and a learning network. We take a collaborative approach to address complex challenges.
